

Weekly Report

Lu Junhua

2016 年 1 月 17 日

We modified our survey section by section and finally submitted it. We learned a lot from this experience. I took several notes during modification, and I will amend the notes after taking all my exams.

We discussed the model which would be used in the vast paper. It is a survival model used in social network analysis which published in Nature. We modified the meaning of variables in it, and add several explanatory variables for better explanation as well as for visualization. We may modify the design proposed previously according to this model. All the details can be seen in our meeting minutes.

My exam finishes at 20th Jan. After that also two ddl for course essays. However I will allocate my time in a organized way and do more and better work.